

CARLOW CONNECTIONS presents

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO BE AN EFFECTIVE AGILE PROJECT LEADER?

A project management skill building and networking event

Wednesday, November 20 | 8 a.m.-9:30 a.m.

Regional Learning Alliance in Cranberry

Jump start your day and join us for the Carlow Connection Series topic: “What does it take to be an Agile Project Manager” presented by David Wolfe, MBA, PMP.

In today’s rapidly changing business environment, the traditional static approaches to project requirement gathering and evaluation are no longer effective. Born in rapid software prototyping the new ‘Agile’ project management techniques have introduced a more iterative and incremental approach to project management requirements throughout the project life cycle. Come learn about the unique mindset and skillset required to be an effective ‘agile’ project leader.

Mix and mingle with regional project management professionals and learn strategies, tips, and techniques to elevate your project management capabilities.

Continental breakfast will be served. Self study credits available.

For more information, contact Shannon Agredo at sagredo@carlow.edu or 412.578.6383.

Cost to attend: $25

Register online at: bit.ly/_RLA

ABOUT THE PRESENTER:

Dave G. Wolfe, MBA, PMP is a recognized leader in the Information Technology and Finance fields. Dave rose through the ranks to CIO at the Duquesne Light Company with responsibility for all IT business functions, including the Project Management (PMO) office. He is a PMI certified Project Management Professional (PMP)®. Dave teaches graduate and undergraduate courses Project Management, IT and Accounting at Carlow University, won the Adjunct Professor of the Year and has served as an Executive in Residence.

Hosted in conjunction with

Coursework reviewed and approved by the Project Management Institute